Legislators back Price

By JACK C. VENTIMIGLIA

GRANITE CITY — State-level legislators on Friday endorsed U.S. Rep. Mel Price, D-Bellefonte. State Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, state Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, and state Rep. Jim McPike, D-Alton, came out in favor of a 22nd term for the 21st District's congressman.

"I think it's (endorsement) a great asset to my candidacy," Price told the Press-Record/Journal from his Virginia home Friday afternoon. "They've been long-time friends." "Congressman Price first gained my professional respect; then my friendship," Wolf said. "He is a fine person and an even better legislator. His contributions to the Metro East cannot be measured. I say, let's stick with Mel Price." Wolf said Price has been instrumental in keeping the St. Louis Area Support Center in Granite City and its $18 million contribution to the community's economy. Wolf also said Price was recently responsible for acquiring land and a warehouse from the U.S. Department of the Army for the Tri-City Regional Port District. Residents object to zoning change

By BILL MILLIGAN
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — More than 15 residents neighboring the intersection of 25th Street and Terminal Railroad Association tracks Thursday evening told the city's planning commission they were opposed to rezoning property for light industrial use near their homes.

The zoning change was requested by M.H. Wolfe Realty and Rentals, 2301 Adams St. The change would declare property available for use as a railroad spur.

WOLFE WANTS to install a rail spur that rail cars can back onto before entering the Midwest Steel complex at 1107 22nd Street.

Currently, a spur at the intersection of 25th and Adams streets is used for that purpose.

Speaking on behalf of the proposal, Joe Henderson, a local realtor, said the spur was used no more than five times per year.

WOLFE REALTY wants to construct multi-family housing on the site where the current spur is located.

Terminal Railroad gave tentative approval to the plan on condition that the railroad be allowed to construct the spur near the intersection with 25th Street.

Speaking on behalf of local residents, Ward 4 Alderman Sharon Perjak told planning commissioners her constituents were not opposed to construction of the spur, but were opposed to rezoning the property.

"ONCE WE CHANGE the zoning to M-1 (a light industrial classification), there is no guarantee the land won't be used for business or manufacturing some time in the future," Perjak said.

Glen Wolfe, owner of the property, said the land was originally zoned for industrial use, but was given an R-2 (single family, residential) rating when cities restructured zoning ordinances in the late 1970s.

Wolfe told the Press-Record/Journal he would seek legal remedies after the meeting.

Tentative for township Multiplier at 1.0252

By BILL WINTER
Staff writer

To equalize real estate assessments, the Madison County Board of Review tentatively has set a 1.0252 multiplier for property in Venice Township.

For the same reason, a negative multiplier of .9756 has been ordered tentatively for Chouteau Township real estate. Both Granite City and Nameoki townships will have no multiplier, 1.0000.

THE ILLINOIS Department of Revenue has issued a tentative county multiplier of 1.0000. However, changes were necessary to equalize the townships between themselves," Shirley J. Voegelge said Friday.

Chairman of the Board of Review, Voegelge added, "The township multipliers will apply to all classes of real property except farmland. A Board of Review hearing will be held for any interested property owners before the assessment changes take effect."

Interested persons may appear at the Board of Review Room, 116 Hillside Ave., Edwardsville, Monday, March 10, at 10 a.m. if they wish to be heard. The telephone number is 1-692-6200, extension 4862.

Merchants name Perjak to chair sidewalk fest

GRANITE CITY — Downtown Merchants and the Downtown Restoration Society will combine their annual sidewalk sale and craft festival in June into one big event.

Organizers of the event hope to attract more than 100 craftsmen, entertainers, ethnic food vendors and carnival attractions downtown June 27-28.

HOURS-FOR THE EVENT have been tentatively set for 9 a.m.-5 p.m. June 27 and 9:30 a.m.-5 p.m. June 28.

Exhibitors' booths will cost $6 per day or $10 for both days.

Plans are to ask the city for permission to block off 14th Street, between Grand Avenue and Cleveland Boulevard, for the occasion.

MONEY RAISED by the event will be used to purchase, waste

Venice PTA already hard at work

By GARY KING
Correspondent

VENICE — The newly organized Parent-Teacher Association is already at work, the Venice School Board learned Thursday night.

The group will sponsor fund-raising events for the Venice School District, said Carolyn Wilson, Venice PTA founder. The association was formed in November.

THE PTA'S FIRST event was to be a dance Feb. 14, but failure to give the school board a 30-day notice resulted in a postponement.

"We're still trying to iron out some of the kinks right now," PTA President Wilson said. "When we started back in November we had 29 people involved in the PTA. We now have 55 members, so we are starting to see some progress."

"What we are hoping to do is get more participation from both the parents and the students. The more people we are able to get involved, the better we'll be."

"OUR INTENTIONS are good intentions. When we raise money, we're not doing it for our own glory."

We just want to help the kids and the school district. Whatever the school board decides to do with the money we raise is fine with us."

Some school board members said they are pleased with having a PTA.

"I think this (the PTA) is a good thing," Superintendent Robert Vickers said. "I have always supported the idea of a PTA, even in the years when we didn't have one. I want to see this succeed because I think that it could help all of us."

THE PTA'S FORMATION helped fulfill a school board goal, said Seth Kirkpatrick, Venice Grade School principal.

"One of our goals at the start of the school year was to start a PTA program in Venice," Kirkpatrick said. "It appears that we've accomplished that goal. Although it seems a little rough right now, it will continue to get better with time."

Among those working with Wilson in the PTA are Vice-President Cynthia Crawford, Secretary Sandra Sanders and Treasurer Karen Mackers.

Pregnant women find 'family' at Alpha Center

By BILL BAGBY
Staff writer

When there is no place else to go, pregnant girls and women can stay at the Alpha Center for Women, 2104 Cleveland Blvd.

"It's like a family that's not blood-related," said Debbie Ann McDaniel, 22, a resident at Alpha Center. "We have to be, since we don't see our real family."

A resident at the center for three months, McDaniel is expecting her first baby in a few weeks.

"I DON'T HAVE anywhere else to live while I'm pregnant, and I don't have any family locally," she said.

The center's strict rules are a change for McDaniel, who has been living on her own since she was 16. Each woman is required to do her own cooking, cleaning, laundry, continue her education and abide by the center's curfew rules.

"You don't have to like the rules," McDaniel said, "but you have to live with them."

THERE HAS BEEN an attitude change in McDaniel's life since she's been at the center.

"I think I'm more responsible and happier with myself," she said. "I used to sleep to two or three in the afternoon but I learned you can't do that when you have a baby."

The Alpha Center is also building a foundation for her future. On Feb.

8, she received her GED (general educational development) certificate and plans to continue her education after the baby is born.

"That's funny, because I've hated school since I was 16," she said. SHE IS ONE of eight pregnant girls and women at the Alpha Center. They range in age from 14 to 22.

The center makes them feel at home. They have a kitchen, dining room, bedrooms and a television room.

"Most of these girls come from broken homes," said Betty Stegmeyer, an administrator at the center. "A lot of them have been on their own for a long time."

However, Alpha Center is not just a respite. It is a learning experience for the women. Each is taught responsibility in bringing up her child.

IT IS ALSO a sharing experience. Along with professional counseling, the girls share the joys and sorrows of being young, pregnant and without a home. However, sharing their experiences outside of the center is difficult for some of the girls.

Though the girls were willing to discuss their situations, some were concerned their reputations might be adversely affected and were reluctant to use their real names. One such girl was "Mary," a 19-year-old girl with a week-old baby daughter.

Alpha provides

By BILL BAGBY
Staff writer

Five years of service to pregnant women and girls in the Granite City area were recently celebrated by Alpha Center.

In 1980, the center was established in an old two-story house originally designed to house two families. The structure has been renovated to house one big family now.

THE BUILDING is designed to provide housing for eight women and a housemother.

But there is one extra bed, in case of emergency. There is a waiting list for those wanting to reside at the home.

No girl or woman is turned down, no matter what the race, religion, ability to pay, future plans for the infant, or stage of pregnancy. Once they are there, Alpha Center offers programs for the future of the mother and the child.

THE CENTER is never unattended. Either the housemother or a volunteer is always on hand.

Alpha Center receives funding from private contributions and community organizations. The girls come primarily by referral, since the center doesn't advertise.

The center also offers programs after the child is born, to give new mothers the chance to share problems and insights into motherhood.

Venice wins easily

VENICE. The Red Devils continued to roll.

Three players scored in double figures as Venice pounded Livingston 83-32 in an Illini Gateway conference basketball game Friday night.

Venice jumped out to a 20-1 lead in the first half and coasted the rest of the way.

Jesse Hall, the area's leading scorer, dropped in 25 points. Ed Ware added 17 while Orlando Love had 12.

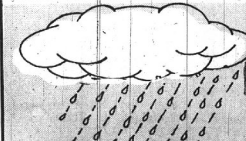

The win upheld the Red Devils record to 19-5. Venice is the No. 1 rated small school in the area.

CIA kept close watch on Philippine purchases

WASHINGTON — The CIA kept close watch on purchases of real estate in the United States by the first family of the Philippines, according to sworn statements by two men who claim they worked for the spy agency.

The property purchases included two estates bought in Hawaii for President Ferdinand Marcos and his wife, Imelda.

The evidence that the CIA was watching the Marcoses is in depositions given in the bizarre case of Ronald Ray Rewald, who ran a Honolulu-based investment company from 1979 to 1983, when he was arrested for fraud.

Rewald has been convicted of embezzling investors' money, but extensive investigations by us as well as by a congressional subcommittee and Rewald's own attorneys, turned up substantial evidence that Rewald and his colleagues in the investment firm were working at least part time for the CIA.

The CIA has officially acknowledged "low-level" involvement in Rewald's investment operation. But at least half a dozen CIA agents, including some Honolulu station chiefs, had undeniable links to the investment company.

Confidential statements and reports obtained by reporter John Kelly show that Rewald and at least one CIA consultant were monitoring the Marcoses' property purchases for the agency. Marcos has denied buying any property in the United States.

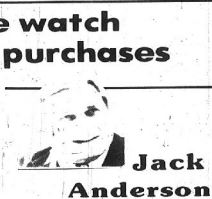

In a 1983 statement to his attorney, Rewald said, "We were keeping a close eye on Mrs. Marcos the last couple of years under the direction of the agency. She had been negotiating on purchasing some land here. But it was the agency's feeling that they were doing it in anticipation of early exile."

Rewald hired another firm to investigate the Marcoses' purchase of property in Hawaii. One estate, bought in 1977, was valued at $717,000, according to the investigators' report. It was purchased by Gloria Tancoco, a close friend of Imelda Marcos whose family owns the biggest department store chain in the Philippines.

The other estate was valued at $1 million and was bought in 1980 by Antonio Floriando. Like Mrs. Tancoco, he has been linked by Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., to the purchases of New York properties for the Marcoses.

Neither Ms. Tancoco nor Mr. Floriando could be reached for comment, but a Philippine Embassy spokesman in Washington told our associate Donald Goldberg that the Solarz testimony was "hearsay and third-party allegations."

Rewald's claim that he spied on the

Jack Anderson

Marcoes for the CIA has been substantiated by Robert W. Jinks, a Utah attorney who was a consultant for Rewald's investment firm and says he also worked for the CIA.

In sworn testimony to the Securities and Exchange Commission, Jinks said he was not to believe that he was working for the CIA, and described a trip to the Philippines for the agency. He was supposed to be determining the flow of capital out of the Philippines," he said, "and the Marcos name was mentioned. Mrs. Marcos in particular." He said he armed the trip with Rewald.

BROKEN PROMISE? Last December, President Reagan telephoned a Vietnam veteran in Kent, Wash., and persuaded him to call off a protest. The vet, Gino Casanova, 35, was objecting to the government's failure to do more about missing American servicemen believed to be alive in Southeast Asia. When Reagan called, according to Casanova, he promised a White House meeting. But in late January, the White House informed Casanova there would be no meeting, saying Reagan never made a specific promise to meet with him.

DIPLOMATIC DIGEST: Thanks to the ayatollah Khomeini's Moslem revolution, most Iranian women now wear drab, shapeless garments intended to discourage lustful longings. But an affluent minority has found clever ways to evade the prohibition on stylish clothes, according to State Department reports. The more daring women sport high-heeled boots and elegant Gucci scarves as part of their required body coverage. And some discard their conservative garments once they're in the privacy of their homes—in favor of fashionable clothing from Rome and Paris.

In Westernized Turkey, on the other hand, things seem to be moving in the opposite direction. More women are seen wearing chudars, the long black robes that are common in Iran but have been a rarity in Turkey. The Koran has become a best-seller, and Moslem clerics are urging women not to shake hands with men, read newspapers or watch television. Government officials say they are fighting fundamentalism, threatens Turkey's cherished secularism.

Many give sports support

Let's set the scene. People waiting in line at 5:30 p.m. for a game that starts at 8 p.m., a gas station offering "a free tank of gas for two tickets to the game," and more people in the gym than there have been for 18 years.

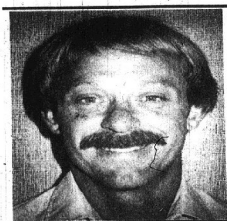

Into the gym walks a gorilla in a basketball uniform, "the refrigerator," two referees with white canes and dark glasses, the "Alton chicken" and other costumed fanatics.

Out go all the lights. On comes a spotlight directed at the American flag, a roar erupts. Next, a spotlight focuses on the team logo painted on the wall—the roar increases as do the sounds of drums beating as if they were tom-toms.

Finally, a spotlight shines down on the stars of this particular night. As they are introduced, no one can hear because of the noise. But it doesn't matter—everyone already knows them.

With the preliminaries over and the lights back on, the game begins. In the end, the home team withstands the opposition's efforts and wins.

One might ask where this game was played. You'd be wrong if you guessed Boston Garden for the NBA Championships or in Champaign at the University of Illinois. These events took place at Granite City High School for a basketball game against Alton on Jan. 25.

The increased support from all those involved with the high school athletic program has made everyone that visits our school shake his head in disbelief. There are many things that have contributed to it.

"First, if our teams were 2-12 in basketball, 1-8 in football or 3-14 in wrestling, the support would not be the same. We are having a great deal of success this year with all of our sports and that success is breeding more enthusiasm and support from the entire community."

There is so much "Warrior pride" at the high school because we have such an outstanding staff, Mr. Wamsley and his assistants have been avid enthusiasts. They take every opportunity to show their support for the entire program.

The band and the pom-pom, flag and rifle squads all add to the pregame and halftime festivities. Mr. Owens' group works as hard as our athletes to put on a show that no one can outdo.

The Pep Club not only provides the signs and spirit at the games and in the school halls, but had a significant part in getting the memorial gym's "resurrection paint job." If you have not been in the gym recently, you would not recognize it. The walls are no longer beige and green. We now have white, red and black walls and trim. It looks like a new gym.

The "wardrobes" have become another important part of the whole scenario. These kids dress up as if it's Halloween at every home game. There is no way I can explain some of the outlandish costumes they have worn. They give a new dimension to the word fanatic.

In addition, the Boosters of the Fighting Warriors is an organization that can take a great deal of the credit for the increased enthusiasm. The boosters represent all of the sports, providing monetary, as well as visual support. These people are everywhere, doing whatever is needed to provide positive results.

People around town have started to find out that the sports events at the high school are the best show in town. We put on a Disney-like production—it's for the entire family.

It is really great to see our state senator, our mayor, city treasurer, police chief and other city officials and dignitaries at these events. Being a lifelong resident of Granite City, I am really proud to see what's happening in this community.

Just last year, residents of Granite City passed a tax referendum to keep our schools alive, and alive they are.

On behalf of the entire coaching staff at the high school, I want to thank all of those who have helped turn the problems of the past into the positiveness we have now. Hopefully, the happy endings will continue for many years to come.

Praise for Fisk and other aldermen

To the Editor:

I would like to thank Alderman Paul Fisk for asking the aldermanic board to vote to discontinue the giving of animals from the Granite City pound for research purposes.

Alderman Fisk's suggestion was seconded by six other progressive-minded aldermen at the Feb. 4 meeting.

Pound seizure is an issue that must be addressed in every locality that practices it.

The citizens do not want former and lost pets being sold or given away for research purposes, as was evidenced by the landslide vote of the Madison County Board members to discontinue pound seizure in Madison County.

Removing the divisive activity of pound seizure in Granite City will be the first step taken in the direction of initiating and implementing effective animal control policies.

Reporter will leave Granite City in good hands

As I drove to work last week, I mumbled all of the everyday, run-of-the-mill things I'll miss.

Like my colleague, Susanne Indelicato, I'll be starting a new job in St. Louis this week.

I'll be talking with me some valuable journalism experience, but I'll be leaving behind some valuable friends.

I'll miss getting up at 5:30 most mornings to go to the Granite City police station to pick up the crime reports. Actually, I won't miss getting up at 5:30 a.m., but I will miss the men in blue.

Every morning, like clockwork, I've been greeted with a smile and a "Good morning, Glory!" from the watch commander. I'll miss the ribbing from the officers, too—I know it's all been in fun.

I'll miss all of the friendly

secretaries at the various city offices. I'm talking about the secretaries who've relayed my messages to their bosses—the secretaries who've gone out of their way to help me.

Also on the list of those I'll miss are those city officials I've "battered" a million times during my four years here. These officials answered my questions promptly and patiently. They explained the technical jargon to me without making me feel stupid.

I'll miss what those colorful politi-

There's also that special city official known as the clerk who hasn't missed sending me a birthday card or Christmas card since I started working in town. It's little kindnesses like that a person remembers all her life.

Believe it or not, I'll miss those "sometimes lengthy" Granite City Council meetings on Tuesdays nights, too. I'll miss the politics and I'll miss the most colorful politicians around.

What other council has an alderman named "Cherry Picker," a mayor friendly enough to be known by everyone as simply Von Dee, or a politician named Sam Whitmer who knows what's happened in the city the past 40 years because he's been serving on the council that long?

I'll miss what those colorful politicians are doing, too.

I won't be here when the downtown gets renamed, or when it gets its McDonald's, or its new mall.

I'll miss the construction of Eticam's new plant, the kickoff of the regional sewage treatment plant and the long-awaited remedy to the city's sewer problems.

Maybe more than all of those things, I'll miss working with the group of dedicated journalists, advertising salesmen, printers, pressmen, paper carriers, secretaries and office workers that make up the staff of the Press-Record/Journal. This week I'll be leaving Granite City behind. But I'll be leaving in good hands—the hands of the policemen, the secretaries, the city officials, the Press-Record/Journal employees. It'll be left in the hands of friends.

Obituaries should be presented to the public as quickly as possible, as we have heard time and again from readers.

As is evidenced by our concern for the religious thinking of some community members, for being absolutely factual, and for presenting news in a timely fashion, this newspaper is doing its utmost to treat the tragedy of death in a professional, yet compassionate manner.

The call caused us to rethink our policy on the treatment of suicide obituaries. But, the end result is we believe our present treatment of such stories is the best way to handle them.

Word 'suicide' not used on obituary page

The term "suicide" is not used on our obituary page.

Someone called last week to ask why it isn't. One of his relatives had died and the man preferred the death be called suicide rather than having the scene described.

His opinion was that, by describing the scene, we were being cruel to the family, and perhaps sensational.

The obituary policy at the Press-Record/Journal is as fair and compassionate as we can make it.

There are three main reasons why suicide details get into the newspaper:

1) In the religious thinking of some, suicide is sinful. This paper will not judge the last moment of a person's life by calling the death a suicide. Perhaps, too late a thought of not going through with the act occurred. The result would be the same to man, but perhaps not to God.

2) Though there often are notes left, and though the death scene looks like a suicide was committed, suicide is not always the case. For whatever reason, a man could leave a note on a river bridge to make it look as if he's jumped, but he might actually be living in another city. Or someone could commit murder and make it look like the victim was a suicide. Such illustrations are very unlikely, but not unheard of in fact. By describing the scene, the public can judge for itself if a suicide occurred.

3) The result of death can only be stated authoritatively by the coroner's office. Even the family's statement would be no more than an informed opinion. We cannot say a person was a suicide victim unless the coroner's office says so, and that could take six weeks—much too long a period to wait to write the obituary.

Number 2 in party for Fields

Charging a "political deal" a top Madison County Democratic Party official broke ranks with party regulars Feb. 6 to endorse county Auditor Arthur "Pete" Fields in his bid to unseat longtime Congressman Mel Price.

Party Vice Chairman William Rekowski of Collinsville said the party endorsement of Price was not done in the open. No candidate screening interviews were held.

Fields is seeking the party nomination for the U.S. House seat of Price, who represents the 21st District.

REKOWSKI CHARGED the party endorsement of Price was made in exchange for Price's endorsement last year of county party Chairman Mac Warfield in an unsuccessful bid for Granite City mayor.

"It was obvious some kind of a deal was made," Rekowski charged, conceding he could not prove it.

An aide to Price, Bob Samples, who attended the press conference called by Rekowski, said "Congressman Price does not make deals with anyone, or he would not have stayed in office for 42 years."

"He does not have much to say about this because he does not involve himself in dirty campaigns," Samples added.

WARFIELD HAS DENIED any deal was made. He lost the mayor election but is still superintendent of streets.

Rekowski made his announcement at a press conference in Edwardsville. Samples and Bob Stille, Edwardsville Township supervisor and a Price supporter, were also at the conference.

"As I have gone around the county, I have spoken with party workers. The majority have expressed their support for Pete Fields," Rekowski said.

"It appears a political deal was made between the congressman's office and the party chairman, Mac Warfield, when he ran for mayor of Granite City a few months ago," he said.

"THE CONGRESSMAN endorsed Warfield, and now it appears Warfield is repaying that political debt by pushing the party workers into Mel's camp," said Rekowski.

He said Price had never made such a city election endorsement before.

Rekowski feels most precinct committeemen support Fields, although they are hesitant to make it public.

REKOWSKI SAID the timing is right for support of Fields.

He said Price is seeking his last term and "the district is going to lose that seniority either now or in two years. The time is right to start building that seniority new with Pete (Fields)," he said.

Steve Maragides and Ronald P. Lucas are also seeking the Democratic nomination.

Fields, who was present for Rekowski's announcement, said party workers "feel it is a question of the future, rather than loyalty to the past."

HE AND REKOWSKI said they do not believe the endorsement will create a split. They added that Democrats have always been able to re-unite after such battles.

"Although... I do feel a few people will be unhappy," said Rekowski.

Sausage supper to honor Astorian

Collinsville Mayor Gene Brombolich and friends are hosting a fund-raiser - a "sausage fest" - for Bob Astorian, Granite City assistant police chief and a candidate for the Democratic Madison County sheriff nomination.

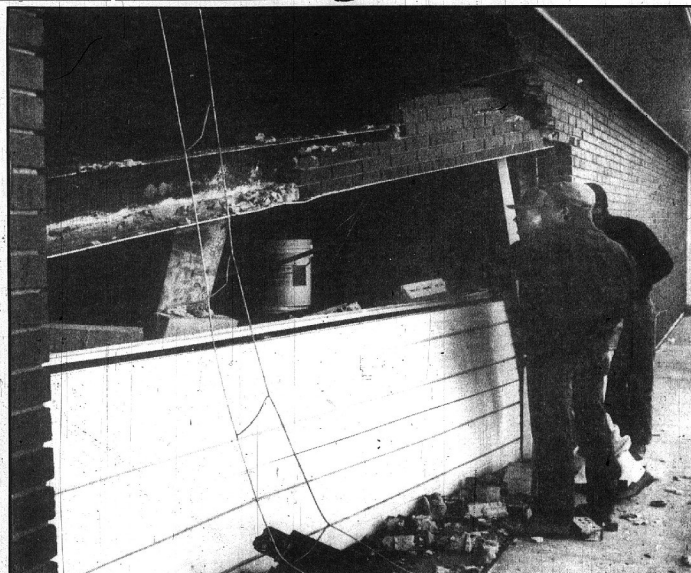

The event will be held from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday, Feb. 21, at the VFW Post at 1234 Vandavia St., Collinsville.

The supper will feature Italian, bratwurst, Polish and corned pork sausage. Tickets ($20 donation) may be obtained by calling Brombolich at 344-3252, Loren Davis at 677-0120 or Yvonne M. Boyle at 345-8336.

In endorsing him, the Collinsville mayor said, "Bob Astorian stands head and shoulders above the rest. His 24 years of professional police service have brought numerous commendations. He is a graduate of the FBI Academy and SILE, has attended and taught many police training seminars and workshops, and has served on the St. Louis Major Case Squad." He recommended him to voters.

Betterment Committee to launch clean-up drive

The Community Betterment Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce is working toward completion of two projects, including the annual Clean-Up Week sponsored by the Chamber. The committee has set Saturday, April 26, as the kickoff date and the activities will continue through Friday, May 2.

On April 26, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will pick up "stashed trash" along the streets in Madison, Venice, Granite City, Mitchell and Pontoon Beach.

The City Pride Committee of Granite City will join the efforts on that date to complete a beautification project at Belmore Village Shopping Center.

In the past, the clean-up project has received much help from the Granite City McDonald's Restaurant, Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. of Alton and the Women's Division of the Chamber, a spokesman said. All have assured the committee of continued assistance.

The committee also is counting on clean-up programs by industries, merchants, school districts and city governments.

The second project comes from the awards unit of the Community Betterment Committee. It is completing plans for annual recognition to be announced at the Chamber's yearly membership dinner meeting in October.

The award is to be named the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce Community Service Award, and forms are to be provided for nominations.

Selections will be based on such factors as length of service, innovative ideas, individual leadership, and improvement of the quality of community life.

Realtors sponsor scholarships

Scholarship applications for college students in real estate studies are available from the office of the Granite City Board of Realtors, according to Board President John Blasingame.

Several different types of scholarships are available, Blasingame said, ranging in amount from $500 to $2,000 or more. All are offered by the Illinois Real Estate Educational Foundation.

As many as eight or more scholarships will be awarded by the Foundation this summer, for use of students when school convenes this fall. Applications must be completed and returned to the Foundation's Springfield office by May 1, with supportive materials (academic transcripts and letters of recommendation) due by June 15.

Applications may be obtained locally from the Granite City Board of Realtors, 18 Crossroads Plaza, 3801 Nameoki Road, Granite City 62040.

Each type of scholarship has its own eligibility requirements. Selection of scholarship recipients from all funds is based on the applicant's indicated interest in pursuing a career in real estate business or an allied field, scholastic achievement, economic need and recommendations and references.

Jason Gedrick and Lou Gossett Jr. star in 'Iron Eagle.'

Iron Eagle

1 2 3 4 5

Iron Eagle is a teen-age military rescue movie about a young man and a retired Air Force colonel.

They form a two-man, F-16 strike force against a nameless Arab country. They must rescue the boy's father, an Air Force fighter pilot, who has been shot down for supposedly violating that country's air space.

The retired colonel, Chappy, is played by Lou Gossett Jr. and the young man, Doug, is played by Jason Gedrick.

The first thing to understand about this film is the story is impossible. But, once this fact is accepted and you go along for the adventurous ride, you're in for quite a trip.

Doug is a student pilot when word comes his dad has been shot down and is being held captive. Once the script establishes Doug's virility and that he has spent many hours flying an F-16 simulator, it seems the thing to do is to compute a plan to grab two F-16's (with the help of Gossett) and pull off an escape the United States government claims it can not.

There is an overload of airborne action in Iron Eagle, a blessing for those with a pilot's license in their wallet or a pair of gold wings tucked tightly away in an attic chest.

But if you are the kind of person who spends most of their time aloft clutching a burp bag, then Iron Eagle is not your ticket.

Music also is woven into the action as Doug flies parts of his mission to pre-recorded instructions from Chappy, plus rock songs by Spencer Davis and Twisted Sister.

Another first for the Air Force, Iron Eagle is a patriotic crowd pleaser for teens. If you're young, healthy enough, smart enough and brave enough, you might want to enlist after seeing this film.

The Long Shot

1 2 3 4 5

Tim Conway usually plays the likeable simpleton, with a penchant for bumping into things.

In his new film, The Long Shot, a movie he also wrote, Conway plays one of four neighborhood slouches. The others are Harvey Korman, Jack Weston and Ted Wass.

Together they play cards, drink beer, go to football games, stuff their faces and visit the track. Their bets on the ponies are always meager, but to these guys, a buck is a buck and a bet is a bet.

Always looking for the big score, the boys are told by a greasy track rat that he can drug a lousy horse and make him run like the wind.

Since the nag will be a long shot, the odds on the win will make the spoils of victory a sizeable bankroll.

There's only one snag. They don't have the money for the big bet so they borrow $10,000 from a local loan shark, telling him they want to open a hot dog stand.

The rest of The Long Shot is the story of our four friends, facing the destiny of their follies as the horses head for the finish line.

This film is a labor of love for Conway, who in real life has always been a horse racing fan and has owned several horses.

The Long Shot successfully portrays not only the nature of the friendship among the four principals, but it also features brief appearances by Anne Mearns as Madge, Conway's badgering wife, and Jonathan Winters as a farmer with a truck who rescues the boys on the way to the track after their car gets a flat.

The Long Shot is mildly crude. Some of the bathroom humor is cheap.

But there are some good times and good laughs generated by this experienced cast. And it has an ending that is a photo finish.

Industrial rebirth in Illinois urged by Gov. Thompson

Illinois' chief executive, Gov. James R. Thompson, described several "corridors of opportunity" in his 1986 State of the State address Monday, including emphasis on Metro East development.

He said a future of prosperity can be achieved by "rolling up our sleeves and getting to work."

IN HIS 10TH annual message to the General Assembly, the governor said economic opportunity is "the stuff the American dream is made of — and in that sense, all of these corridors are within our grasp."

"We should move now to make them a reality for the men and women of Illinois who want economic opportunity, whether it can be achieved today, tomorrow, next year or in the next century," he said.

Thompson envisioned corridors of opportunity for automobile manufacturing, agriculture, new energy and solid waste technology, retail stores and offices, riverfront development and high technology.

HE EMPHASIZED the corridors are examples "to stir your imagination and trigger your energy" and said the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs will work with regional groups to shape the plans.

The Chrysler Corp. plant at Belvidere and the planned Diamond-Star Motors plant at Bloomington-Normal are seen as the anchors for an automobile corridor.

"The opportunity lies in the fact that 90 percent of all auto assembly in the United States lies within a day's drive of Illinois, and 80 percent of the 30,000 separate parts in a new car are produced by other, smaller companies," he said.

RECREATION and tourism corridors stretch from the Mississippi River to the Ohio River in Southern Illinois, from Rockford to Galena, and along the lakefront of Lake Michigan from the Indiana border to Wisconsin.

The beauty and worth of that lakefront can be enhanced by the McCormick Annex, by the rehabilitation of Navy Pier in partnership with the City of Chicago, and the dramatic expansion of Shedd Aquarium to include year-round marine show facilities, recreational and commercial expansion at the Port of Chicago, redevelopment of the Chicago Avenue Armory site, the building of a marina at Illinois Beach State Park and North Chicago and rehabilitation of the Waukegan lakefront.

An agricultural corridor is seen as linking Quincy on the west and Danville on the east, anchored by agribusinesses and research facilities.

"IF WE CAN'T" go head to head on the raw grain markets of the world in the same way we did 30 years ago, we can develop new products and new markets," Thompson said.

He said Lt. Gov. George Ryan will chair a statewide commission to begin renewal of small towns and rural life in Illinois.

A vast corridor of opportunity exists along the sites of former industrial greatness, for example, from Joliet to Peoria to DeKalb to the Quad Cities (Moline area) on Interstate 80, and from Rockford to Illinois, he said.

Thompson will recommend increases in state funding to assist firms in retraining workers and in retooling.

"WE HAVE opportunities for the exploitation of energy and industrial byproducts on Interstate 70 from the Indiana border to East St. Louis, on Illinois 13 from St. Louis to Carbondale, on Interstate 55 from Springfield to East St. Louis and on Interstate 57 from Chicago to Champaign," he said.

"Illinois has an abundance of energy, and since we are a strong industrial state, we have an abundance of what we call industrial waste. It is time to stop calling it waste, stop burying it in the ground, and begin to recycle that 'waste' into useful, marketable products."

The new I-255 in southwestern Illinois presents a corridor for increased retail and office activity.

"The rivers of the state continue to present opportunities for the commerce of tourism and industry."

HE URGED CREATION of a Southwest Illinois Development Authority to work with local governments and the private sector toward development of the Illinois side of the Mississippi River across from central and south St. Louis.

"We can turn rail yards, idle lands and slums into an extraordinary blend of retail, commercial, recreational, light industrial, tourism and housing uses," he said.

"Finally, jobs lost on the assembly line of old industries are jobs to be recaptured on the new assembly lines of high technology," he said.

HIGH-TECH corridors listed were the North-West Tollway from Chicago to Rockford, the East-West Tollway from Chicago to the Quad Cities, the Tri-State north from O'Hare Airport to the Wisconsin border, and I-57 from Chicago to Champaign. These areas are the site of more than 25 research-oriented facilities.

The governor repeated his support for local control of school consolidation. "In the end, the decision is that of the people of a local school district," he said. "No one can force consolidation on them, and no one should."

"If it is necessary to make that point squarely in legislation now pending before you, do it and send it to my desk," Thompson told lawmakers. "We are not going to approve force over choice in Illinois education."

HE CALLED ON the General Assembly to address the property and casualty insurance crisis.

"The issue is not taking away the rights of the individual — these must always be protected. The issue is having a rational tort system for personal injury and product liability that can encourage economic growth and job creation," he said.

Thompson proposed that 60-day notification for all cancellation notices be required by law, and said claims information should be available to all consumers — to show potential insurers that the reason for their cancellation or large rate increase was not due to a poor claims record.

Noting the success of the 1983 Unemployment Insurance Solvency Agreement, Thompson called for an extension of the present agreement or an acceptable version of it for one more year. He said representatives of labor, business and the legislature should return to the Executive Mansion for negotiations.

HE WILL DIRECT the chairman of the Illinois Industrial Commission to suggest further reforms of the worker compensation process for consideration by the Assembly this spring.

"Illinois has a choice of leadership this year — between wringing our hands in doubt, with despair and timidity, or rolling up our sleeves and getting to work," he said.

"Hands that work are too busy to wring."

Amsted accepts buyout offer

Amsted Industries Inc. announced Jan. 30 that its board of directors has entered into a definitive merger agreement with Amsted's management group and Amsted's employee stock ownership plan (ESOP).

The decision was based on their revised proposal to acquire all of Amsted's 11 million outstanding shares of common stock in a leveraged buyout (LBO) transaction. Amsted plants include the currently idle American Steel Foundries facility in Granite City.

In the acquisition, each share of Amsted common stock will be exchanged for (1) $32.25 in cash, (2) $27 principal amount of new Amsted subordinated discount debentures due in 2006, and (3) $4 face amount (2/25 of a share) of new 12 percent cumulative non-voting Amsted preferred stock.

AMSTED SAID its board approved the acquisition based on the unanimous recommendation of a special committee of independent directors.

The committee's recommendation was based on a number of factors, including the opinion of Salomon Brothers Inc. — an independent financial advisor retained by the special committee — that the consideration to be received by Amsted stockholders other than the management investors is fair from a financial point of view to such stockholders.

Amsted said it has received commitments from a syndicate of banks led by the First National Bank of Chicago to provide senior debt financing for the acquisition. The financing commitments are subject to the execution of definitive loan agreements and other customary conditions.

AS FIRST STEP in the acquisition, Amsted and the ESOP will begin a joint exchange offer for all of Amsted's shares.

Under an earlier proposal made by the buyout group Nov. 4, 1985, withdrawn Nov. 27, stockholders would have received $37 in cash and $27 principal amount of the discount debentures for each Amsted common share.

Terms of the debentures remain unchanged from the initial proposal. They will not bear interest for the first six years, but will bear interest semi-annually at 16 percent a year starting in the seventh year, and will be retired through a level sinking fund starting in 11th year.

Each share of preferred stock will be entitled to cumulative quarterly dividends at an annual rate of 12 percent of the $50 redemption price per share, and will be redeemed by Amsted at the end of the 10th year.

AFTER THE EXCHANGE offer, the ESOP will contribute the shares it acquires in the offer. Management investors will contribute 127,734 restricted shares they currently own. The newly formed corporation will then be merged into Amsted.

Series A and B debentures will have identical terms except that they will have different issue dates and issue prices for tax purposes, and will trade separately.

Utility consumers being requested to join citizen board

"Are you fed up with soaring utility bills?"

That's the question the Citizens Utility Board (CUB) will be asking over 4 million Illinois ratepayers when they open their February utility bills.

"In 1985, Illinois utility companies spent millions of consumer dollars to fight for higher rates," CUB President Howard Learner says in a red, white and blue flyer that will reach every utility consumer in February.

Illinois law requires that utilities include CUB literature in their bills four times a year. CUB pays for the printing of the inserts and they are approved by the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC).

The CUB flyer, which is also a membership form, describes some of CUB's recent accomplishments, including:

1. An overhaul of the state's Public Utilities Act, the law governing utility regulation in Illinois. Reforms will add up to pocketbook savings for ratepayers for years to come, the group says.
2. The CUB fought Illinois Power's request for an immediate rate hike to pay for costs at the Clinton nuclear power station before the plant was operational. CUB estimates the average household will save $150 through 1986 as a result of the ruling.
3. It took the ICC to court over Commonwealth Edison's recent $94.4 million rate hike.
4. CUB helped cut state utility taxes.
5. It successfully challenged an Illinois Bell plan to restructure rates, and won reforms which will mean cheaper phone bills for many and less confusion for all.
6. It assisted thousands of ratepayers with individual utility problems.

When you join CUB, you're joining one of the fastest-growing citizen movements in Illinois. Membership Director Claude Walker said, "More than 170,000 Illinois citizens have joined CUB. This insert gives people a convenient and economical way to 'right back' against utility rates and practices."

Ratepayers who do not receive a CUB insert in one of their next electric, gas or phone bills should call the CUB office at 1-800-222-2022.

A REMINDER FROM THE LAW TODAY

In a recent article, the head of the civil division of the United States Department of Justice is quoted as saying that, in order to keep insurance costs under control, a cap should be put on the amount of money which a tort victim may be awarded for such things as pain and suffering and the mental distress which often accompanies severe and debilitating physical injury. This attitude has become widespread, and is deeply disturbing. What big business and many of the politicians have failed to recognize is the simple reality that if products were made safe, workers were provided with proper equipment, and more attention was paid to the well-being of the public than to the profit margin, the cost of litigation and the cost of insurance would immediately go down. Not surprisingly, the same groups whose "reforms" would limit your right to fully recover for wrongs committed against you have said nothing about meeting their own responsibility to help prevent injuries from happening in the first place. Remember, the bottom line is: who's looking out for your interests?

We will be discussing this and other topics on Tuesday night's program.

William J. Hooper

William J. Hooper, 56, of 2624 Elm Avenue, Granite City, died at 8:16 p.m. in his home after an 11-year illness. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Madison County Deputy Coroner Randy Irwin.

Born in St. Louis, Mr. Hooper resided in Granite City for 40 years. He was employed by the National Lead Company for 30 years as a crane operator, before going on disability in November, 1975.

Mr. Hooper was a member of the Calvary Pentecostal Church on Maryville Road.

Survivors include her husband, Ted K. Schaefer, Ted Schaefer, son, College Park, Pa.; Mrs. Paul Cathie DeGonia, sister, Pasadena, Md.; Pamela Samson, sister, Palmette, Fla.; Harry Bretz, brother, Granite City, and four grandchildren.

Services are pending at Davis Funeral Home.

Coal mine deaths up

The rate of fatal injuries in America's coal mines in 1984 was 0.07 per 200,000 employee hours, compared with 0.04 in 1983. A total of 124 coal miners died in work-related accidents in 1984, compared with 70 in 1983.

Water line funds asked

By DONNA KIMBRO
Staff writer

MADISON — Funds for proposed installation of a water line to the Gateway Midstate Truck Plaza area along Illinois 203 may be obtained within a few months, Mayor John Bellcoff told aldermen Tuesday night.

The mayor, Aldermen Don Wilson, James Hillmer and Paul Ashford and City Attorney Larry Hartman met in Springfield Tuesday with officials of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs.

STATE SEN. SAM Valadabene arranged the meeting, set up to explore the availability of funds to help meet the cost of extending water service south from the main area of Madison.

It was noted that lawsuits filed by Mike Macke and the Metro-East Sanitary District, contesting the validity of the city's annexation of the Gateway area, have not been dropped or settled.

Macke agreed at the previous council meeting to drop his lawsuit but has not done it as yet. Walter "Shang" Greathouse, MESA executive, said he is considering recommending that the sanitary district drop its suit, but noted the five-member board will decide whether to do so.

NOTHING FINAL was decided at the Springfield meeting but the mayor said he is hopeful "this will be the answer to the water line problem." The line is expected to cost at least $214,000.

"We will not know anything else until further meetings are set up," the mayor said.

In an effort to solve other matters, the Madison delegation met Tuesday afternoon with H.R. Hanley, secretary of the Illinois Department of Transportation, to discuss the Madison Avenue electric traffic signals at Third, Sixth and 12th streets.

Because the signals are proving expensive to maintain and repair, the possibility of replacing them with stoplights has been proposed by some.

"THE MEETING was fruitful and the electric signals will not be taken out. We will explain the details at a later date," Bellcoff said.

After hearing the mayor review the state meetings, Alderman Robert Greive asked, "What would happen if nothing can be done for Mr. Pratt (Truck Plaza owner) and we cannot install the water line?"

Hartman said the lawsuits must be resolved first.

If the city cannot comply with annexed property owners' request for city water, Pratt would probably want out of the agreement and ask to be "de-annexed," Hartman said.

Services conducted for Beulah D. Green

Funeral services were conducted Friday, Feb. 7, at 1:30 p.m. by the Rev. Kenneth Brand at Rose Lawn Memory Gardens Chapel in Bethalto for Beulah D. Green, 73, of East Alton, sister of a local man.

She died at 10:10 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 5, 1986, at Eldercare Nursing Home in Alton.

Born in Farnell, Mo., she worked as a nurse at several area hospitals. She and her husband, William B. Green, who survives, were married Aug. 7, 1931, in Waterloo.

Other survivors include three sisters, Amber Martin and Mary Schell, both of Jerseyville, and Edith Padone of New Orleans; and two brothers, Melvin Gaddy of Alton and Russell Gaddy of Granite City.

Visitation was at Gray Funeral Home in Wood River, with burial at Rose Lawn Gardens.

SERVICES for Mary Magdeline "Lone" Aufderheide, 91, of 2032 Cleveland Blvd. were conducted Friday, Feb. 14, at 1 p.m. at the Davis Funeral Home Chapel by the Rev. David Fielding. She died at 12:25 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 12, 1986, at The Colonnades Nursing Home. Burial was at Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville.

Olga Grotefendt, 63, dies Friday at home

Olga E. Grotefendt, 63, of Rural Route 3, Edwardsville, died at her home Friday, Feb. 7, 1986, at 5 p.m. She was born in Althaus, Germany, and was a lifetime resident of Edwardsville. She was a member of Eden United Church of Christ. Women of the Moose Chapter 82, Pin Oaks Club and Guild Circle 1010 of Eden Church.

She is survived by two sons, Kenneth L. Grotefendt and David G. Grotefendt, both of Edwardsville; two daughters, Mrs. Diane Ernst of Glen Carbon and Mrs. Susan Blume of Edwardsville; one brother, Gilbert Hoste, New Douglas; and one sister, Mrs. Doris McGuire of Granite City.

Visitation was held Monday, Feb. 10, at Weber Funeral Home, Edwardsville. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday, Feb. 11, at 11 a.m. at Eden United Church of Christ, Edwardsville, by the Rev. Wesley Bornemann. Burial was at Valley View Cemetery, Edwardsville.

Memorials may be sent to Eden United Church of Christ.

Funeral rites held for John Martinko

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Samuel Boda at 11:30 a.m. Feb. 6 at St. John Lutheran Church for John Martinko, 78, of Edwardsville.

He died at 9:40 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 4, 1986, at his home after an illness of one year.

Born in Czechoslovakia, Mr. Martinko moved here in 1934. He retired in 1971 from Miles Laboratories, Granite City, where he was employed as a lift truck driver for 18 years.

Mr. Martinko was a member of St. John Lutheran Church and an Army veteran of World War II.

Survivors include his wife, Maria (Mega) Martinko; a stepson, Paul Salamon of Peoria; and one sister, Mildred Martinko of Granite City.

Visitation was at Irwin Chapel for Funerals, 2801 Madison Ave., and burial was at Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville.

EIGHT OF THE 24 townships in Madison County will have no multiplier this year (1985 tax year for collection of taxes in 1986).

Ten townships, including Venice Township, were assigned tentative multipliers ranging from 1.0112 to 1.0455.

Six townships, including Chouteau Township, are scheduled to have their assessments decreased, varying from .9202 to .9683.

The decreases and increases are regarded by the county's assessed valuation authorities as necessary to attain valuations equaling one-third of the actual "full, fair cash value" of property.

THE REVIEW BOARD consists of the chairman and Kerry N. Miller and Thelma B. Huston, members.

Robert A. Harris is the review board's clerk and also the county's supervisor of assessments.

Alpha

Life as a college student and member of the track team ended when Mary became pregnant. She lost her job and had no where to stay.

She turned to the Alpha Center. "IT'S REALLY NEAT here," Mary said. "We are all on even ground, no matter how long we've been here."

Although a new baby puts heavy demands on Mary, she plans to continue her education and will soon start a job. The center extended further help by finding her an apartment.

Photographs of mothers who put into practice what they learn at the Alpha Center hang on the center's walls: a picture of Mary and her new baby will join those photos.

office is doing for Granite City, a Price aide told the Press-Record/Journal Friday the district will be allowed to use the Army's water system for fire protection purposes in the newly acquired warehouse. The value of the system's use was put at approximately $160,000.

The district had been negotiating for the water system's use but had not received official approval, district Superintendent Robert Wydra said.

Praise for Price also came from Vandalabene.

"I am making this endorsement to let voters know that their state officials in Madison County are behind Congressman Price 100 percent," Vandalabene said. "Mel and I have worked together on many projects, and I know his capabilities are limitless."

Price has served the 21st District since 1944. Also seeking Democratic Party's nod in the March 18 primary are Madison County Auditor Pete Fields of Edwardsville, Madison County Recorder of Deeds Ron Lucas of Maryville and Steve Maragides of Madison, an administrative law

Judge with the Illinois Department of Revenue.

Price, 61, has been criticized during the past two years as being "frail." The point was accentuated in January 1985 when he was ousted by fellow Democrats from his chairmanship of the House Armed Services Committee by a three-vote margin.

Price himself became the congressman's support base was rocked by the defection of East St. Louis Mayor Carl Officer. Officer was endorsed for mayor by Price and formerly worked for the congressman, but late last month Officer endorsed Fields.

"Competence and performance are the reality," Officer said. "It could be a question of health, comprehension and sensitivity."

Concerning Officer's endorsement of Fields, Price said Friday, "I don't think it will have any effect."

Proposed series of heliport sites may be studied

The need for a system of heliports in the St. Louis metropolitan area will be determined if the Federal Aviation Administration funds a study by the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council. At the Council's meeting Feb. 6, the board of directors authorized Gateway to apply for FAA funding for a heliport system plan.

In addition, to determining the need, the study will detail a plan for the general location and development of helicopter landing sites in the eight-county bi-state region. This study will go hand-in-hand with a heliport site selection by St. Louis County.

At the meeting, Gateway's board endorsed St. Louis County's application for federal funding to develop a heliport master plan and site selection study.

Other actions by the board included:

— Approval of a list of more than 40 road improvements in this region.

— Approval of a request by St. Louis to functionally classify Grattan Street between Chouteau and Lafayette avenues as a collector roadway and add it to the federal-aid system. This action makes road improvements possible to provide better access to Interstate 44, Interstate 55 and the 14th Street bridge in St. Louis.

— Approval of changes to the proposed light rail system's route and 20 station locations. In general, the 18-mile system is to follow the original route linking downtown with Illinois and northwest St. Louis County. The changes result from engineering studies and suggestions by municipalities and organizations along the route.

— Approval of an interagency agreement between Gateway and the Transit District of Madison County to prepare a transit needs study of the district's service area.

— Endorsement of public works projects in the region, including highway rest-area and sewer construction and new housing developments.

DOUBLE TROUBLE. Venice's Jesse Hall and Dale Turner (25) put the pressure on Livingston's John Hampton during Friday night's Illini Gateway basketball game. The Red Devils won handily.

Devils win

By GREGG OCHOA
Executive Sports Editor

VENICE — If it had been a prize fight, they would have stopped it because of cuts.

The Venice Red Devils using a deadly offense and an intimidating defense demolished Livingston 83-32 in an Illini Gateway conference basketball game Friday night.

With the victory, Venice moved a game closer to St. Paul of Highland, the conference leader. The Red Devils are now 6-1 in league play and 19-5 overall. Venice was to play St. Paul on Saturday.

Junior Jesse Hall led three Venice players in double figures. Hall, the Metro East's leading scorer, dumped in a game-high 25 points. Ed Ware added 17 and Orlando Love came off the bench and chipped in with 12 points.

However, the story of this game was defense. As returned out that was the Red Devils' offense.

"We have been working on our defense more in practice," said Venice coach Clinton Harris Jr. "Our offense is there, we are going to score. We just want to try and hold down everybody else."

The Red Devils were successful. Venice raced to a 20-1 lead in the first half and had the game under control by the intermission.

The Eagles, who were pounded by Venice 101-37 a few weeks ago, never seemed to figure out how to penetrate the swarming defense.

"We got a lot of our points off steals and easy layups. That's how we broke it open," Harris said.

The Red Devil defense confused

Livingston so much that the Eagles attempted just 11 shots in the entire first half.

The only points Livingston could muster in the 16-1 first quarter was single free throw by John Hampton. He led his team with 13 points. Mike Curry added eight, all in the second half.

Livingston's inability to mount an offense dug them a deeper hole. At one point in the second quarter, Venice led by as much as 30-6 and 34-11. The score was 38-13 at the end of the first half.

By intermission, Hall had 13, equalling the Eagle team output. Ware had 11 first half points.

"They wanted to try and slow the game down and keep us from getting fast breaks," Harris said.

But the plan backfired. Venice was too quick for Livingston. The Devils forced 12 turnovers in the first half and played much of the game under in the Eagles' basket.

Harris was pleased with his team's ability to deliver the knockout punch. He was also glad to see the offense spread around.

"We are trying to get more guys into the offense," Harris said. "Everybody's keying on Jesse but he still scores. Ed (Ware) has played well and so has Vincent (Harris). Also, Judious (Kizeart) has been getting some rebounds, but he needs to shoot a little more. Most of his scoring is off garbage shots."

Hall again rose to the top. Despite being doubled and, at times, triple teamed, the junior put on a display. Hall powered his way to six slams.

Dutko All-American

NEW YORK — Terry Dutko of Granite City was one of three players from Illinois named to the 8th Annual Parade Magazine All-America High School Soccer Team.

The other Illinois players were forward Steve Morris of Evanston Township High School and sweeper Jim Crockford of Glenbrook North.

A senior, Dutko was one of five goalies selected to the squad.

The High School All-America team will be appearing in the Sunday, Feb. 16 issue of Parade Magazine.

In all, 45 athletes from 18 different states are represented on the team.

Honored along with Dutko as being the best at their positions were forward Steve Rammell of New Jersey (Parade's Player of the Year), midfielder Ray Fernandez of California, sweeper-defender Kevin Grimes of St. Louis and Jeff Agoos of Texas and goalie Larry Valentine of Maryland.

Missouri led with seven players selected to the team. Florida and Texas each have five. In addition, five players are repeaters. Repeaters include Michael Pino, David Pelli, Agoos, Eddie Diaz and Steve D'Antonio.

The All-America team was selected by Parade's national board of collegiate coaches and recruiters as well as coaches representing Junior U.S. National soccer teams.

Dutko, who recorded 13 shutouts this past season, found out about the award through teammate Scott Blason.

"I had a dentist appointment Monday and couldn't go back to school. Apparently coach (Gene Baker) found out, told Scott and he called me."

Dutko said the honor hasn't really sunk in yet. "It's hard to imagine. I'm really happy about it."

Dutko plans to attend North Texas State next fall. He is the son of Judy and Terry Dutko. He is the ninth athlete from Granite City to be named all-america. Others are: Matt Sheridan, Billers, Tony Pierce, Randy DeRousse, Steve Trittschuh, Mark Goldschmidt, David Fernandez (two-time) and Rick Fernandez.

Yankees Ruth, Maris rekindle old memories

By AL BARNES
Staff writer

The sad and untimely death recently of former New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinal power hitter Roger Maris pointed out, dramatically, a glaring weakness in baseball's strongest statistics in judging the status of the stars of the game.

To the day of his death at age 32 of cancer, Maris was a bitter man even though his 61 home runs in 1961 broke the single season home run record of 60 set by the immortal Babe Ruth in 1927. For, you see, most baseball fans fervently believed that Ruth's record would never be broken. Yet Maris turned the trick.

The trouble was this: Both Ruth and Maris hit their final home runs on the last day of the season. But sustaining the oldtimers' belief in the sacred structure of Ruth's home run record was that he hit his 60 homers in just 154 games. Maris, however, collected his 61st four-bagger in the 162nd game of the season.

When Ruth posted his record, teams in both the American and National League played just 154 games in the regular season, when Maris posted his 61 homers, the American League schedule, because of expansion, called for 162 games.

The baseball fan, the true fan, that is, has always thought Maris' record was somehow tainted. Personally, I never thought so. Both feats were truly amazing and deserve all fans' true reverence.

Ruth gave me many great moments in sports. But there is one story in his fabulous career he has been credited with doing, the famous pointing to the centerfield fence suggesting he was going to hit a homer against the Cubs in Wrigley Field, that NEVER HAPPENED.

It happened in the third game of the 1932 World Series. The pinstriped

Yanks had won the first two games in New York. I remember it just like it was yesterday. I was in my second year at Lincoln (Ill.) College and had hitchhiked up to the Windy City with a couple of my buddies.

To those days, of course, no one had any money, so you hitchhiked and gate-crashed or you stayed at home. The year before, I'd "crashed" the gate at old Sportsman's Park in St. Louis to see the Cardinals' Pepper Martin "steal" the series from Connie Mack's last great championship team from Philadelphia.

But back to 1932. Charlie Root, the ace of the Cubs' pitching staff, was on the mound. Chicago had tied the game 4-4 in the bottom of the fourth as I remember it. When you gate-crash, you keep moving as if you are constantly on your way to "the john." I remember vividly slowing to a stop because I could hear words between Root and Ruth, and of course, the Yankee bench. The Yanks were mad at the Cubs because the Chicago players had failed to vote Mark Koenig, a former New Yorker, a full share of the Series money.

Anyway, the first Yankee up in the fifth walked and brought up Ruth and his mighty bat. He was quickly behind, two strikes and no balls, which was a funny thing because the crowd cheered louder when he missed a pitch than they did when he homered.

It was then that the Banbino was supposed to have made the sign that he was going to hit a homer. It didn't happen. But he hit the next pitch out of the park — so far, in fact, that it could have landed in Lake Michigan.

Just for fun, I looked the game up in The Sporting News World Series Record Book. Ruth led both teams with 4 runs batted in, and he and Lou Gehrig each blasted a pair of four-baggers as the Yanks won and went on to sweep the Series.

Venice

third quarter when we caught the ball in mid-air, adjusted and stuffed it through with the Eagles Jeff Warren hanging all over him.

Things started out well for the Eagles who held onto the ball for almost the first four minutes of the game. Venice missed its first three shots from the floor and the Eagles had life.

But just as cold as the Devils were early on, the Eagles were frigid. Livingston seemed content to pass the ball and forth, passing up several good shots.

Hall had two slams in the first quarter as the Eagles called four timeouts in the period. It didn't really matter after that.

"There's not really too much you can say about that," Harris said of the opening period. "We really worked hard on defense."

Hawks oust skakers from MSCHA playoffs

ST. LOUIS — Garry Henson would rather know he has definite plans for the last week of February, but the fact is Henson has a clean itinerary.

For the past two years, Henson and his Granite City Warrior hockey team have been at The Arena in the Mid-States Final Four during the end of the month.

The Warriors were seeking to become only the second team in league history to make three consecutive trips. However, the streak ended with two losses to Hazelwood Central in the first round of the league playoffs.

Granite City dropped a 4-1 decision to the Hawks Saturday. Lee Schreiber got the Warriors only goal. On Monday, a 3-2 loss eliminated the Warriors.

The Warriors outshot Central 58-29 in the two games but came up short. "The puck just wouldn't go in for us," Henson said. "We didn't play that bad, especially on defense but we missed a lot of chances."

The majority of frustration came in the second game on Monday. "We had a 3-0-3 advantage for 1:36 and didn't score," Henson said.

Granite City also missed two point-blank chances and had another shot by Krekovich hit the crossbar.

"I don't know if it was over-confidence or just a case of us looking ahead to Lafayette (a possible second-round foe)," Henson said of the sweep. "After a while when things didn't go our way we started to get rattled."

Still, the Warriors ended the season at 16-8 and won 10 in a row late in the season. Granite City has a record of 40-13 the past two years.

"I'm proud of the kids for the season they had," Henson said. "For our size we played well and our goal is to get to The Arena next year. If we work hard I think we can do it."

The Warriors will lose just three players to graduation — Bill Moore, Tom Schreiber and John Roderick. Henson said the season was one of pleasant surprises. The Warriors got solid goaltending from Collins Harlan and Schenke. On offense, the Warriors also got scoring from some unexpected sources.

A Granite City team still has a chance to make it to The Arena. The junior varsity Warriors are 9-4-2 and will begin its post-season playoffs later this month.

Cougars top lions

By AL BARNES
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — It looked almost like a workout Wednesday night as Coach Larry Graham's SIU-Edwardsville basketball team defeated Lindenwood 86-55.

The win extended the Cougars' unbeaten streak at home to 11 games and improved SIU's season record to 16-6.

Three of the SIU starters cracked double figures. John Edwards scored 18, Anthony Webster 11 and James Japa added 16, all in the second half.

Madison's Kenny Stanley scored just six points but led both teams with six assists. Webster and Edwards each grabbed seven rebounds for the Cougars. For Lindenwood, Kirk Lindwehrmer had eight rebounds.

The Lions Earl Austin led his team with 16 points. Kevin Kimer also had 16.

Lindenwood hit on 64 percent of its shots, however, a tough Cougar defense allowed the Lions just 23 field goal attempts. SIU hit on 38-of-65 shots (58 percent).

The Cougars will look to extend its unbeaten string at the Vandalia Arena when SIU hosts Northwest Missouri State University at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 17.

Sports briefs

Umpires meeting to be held

Ray Hoffman, vice president of the Amateur Softball Association, will hold an umpire's meeting for the Granite City Park District Tuesday, Feb. 18 at 7 p.m. at the Brown Recreational Center.

Rules will be discussed and an ASA test will be given. All returning umpires and people who wish to umpire this season should attend. For additional information call the Wilson Park office at 877-3059.

Flamer resigns as SIUE coach

John Flamer, the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville track and cross country coach for the past 18 years, has decided to step down. Flamer's resignation will be effective March 1.

"Opportunities like this come once in a lifetime," Flamer said. "I consider this a mid-career change. While in college, Flamer earned two All-American certificates at SIU-Carbondale. He also won the 1956 New York State cross country championship while at Yonkers High School. Flamer also was a two-time state champion in the mile run.

Soccer signups sought

Bob Guelker, soccer coach at SIU-Edwardsville, has announced that registration is open for his annual Junior Olympic soccer camp.

Two sessions are planned. The first will be held at the Missouri Baptist College July 13-19. The second session will be held at Parks College in Cahokia on July 20-25.

The camps are open for boys age 8 through 17 and girls age 13 through 18.

Registration fee for the overnight camp is $170 and includes meals, lodging, instruction and insurance. Complete information is available by writing: Bob Guelker, Junior Olympic Soccer Camp, P.O. Box 9363, St. Louis, Mo. 63117.

Spring sports exams at GCHS Feb. 26

Physicals for students planning to participate in spring sports at Granite City High School will be given on Wednesday, Feb. 26.

The examination will be held at the high school gymnasium. Cost is $10.
